I am a passionate musician, a second year student at The Melbourne Conservatorium of Music, majoring in classical violin performance, looking to share my love of music and teach students of any age up to Grade 4 AMEB violin and music theory. I have also been composing works of various styles for seven years and would be interested in teaching composition principles, incorporating practical theory.

My aim is to instill good technical habits from early on in the student’s instrumental development and to teach them to have musical sensitivity that will enable them to play with expression and meaning.

Lessons are conducted at my home studio in Watsonia and range in duration from half an hour to an hour.
